VARIETIES.

ONE.—One hour lost in the morning
by laying in bed will put back all the business of the day.

One hour gained in rising early is worth
one month of labor in a year.

One hole in the fence will cost ten times as much as it will cost to fix it at once.

One diseased sheep will spoil a flock.
One unruly animal will learn all others
in company bad tricks, and the Bible says, "One sinner destroys much good."

One drunkard will keep a family poor,
and make them miserable.
One wife that is always telling how fine her neighbor dresses, and how little she can get, will look pleasanter if she talks of something else.

The farmer whose pigs were so lean,
that it took two of them to make a shadow has been beat by another who had several so thin that they would crawl out through the cracks in their pen. He finally stopped that "fun" by tying knots in their tails!

In Bungtown we hear they have but one barber and that he is a doctor, sweep, chemist, surgeon, owner of a charcoal mine and sells the best claims. He takes his customers with a white wash brush, and shaves them with a carving knife. Those disputing his terms in any of these occupations generally get well kicked and no redress, for the kicker is the Justice of the Peace.

Who finds all the umbrellas that everybody loses? Every man we meet loses the umbrellas he buys, but we have never got acquainted with the man that finds them. Can anyone answer the question before the next rain?

A tailor, in a fit of passion because his needles got into an inextricable snarl, seized a skein of thread and stabbed himself to the heart. He is expected to live

The boy that licked the molasses hog-head, is now teaching a threshing machine how to box.

In a certain town where the "Budge" is read extensively, a loafer was brought before the judge for being drunk in the street—the fine being one dollar for each offense. The fine he paid, and was again arraigned, "No you don't Judge," said he, "I know the law—one dollar
for each offense, and this is the same old drunk."

COUNTRY GALLANTRY.—Yesterday a country merchant, while threading his way down Broadway, to attend an auction sale, on turning the corner of Maiden Lane, found a beautiful lady falling plump into his arms. The lady had stepped upon a bit of carelessly thrown peach rind and not being able to regain a fair footing, sought the nearest escape from a fall possible under the circumstances. The merchant held her tight for an instant, when she recovered herself,
and blushing like a moss-rose, stammered
out a "beg pardon."
"Oh, not at all, my dear young lady," said he, "I never felt so good in all my life!" and bowing very low with his hat
in his hand, he turned suddenly away, stripped over a wheelbarrow, pitched into an old woman's peach stand, and we left him rolling amid a small ocean of clingstones.

How to OBTAIN CREDIT.—The Salem Observer says a young man who had been in business two or three years, was in want of a small loan of money, from two to three hundred dollars. He made some inquiries, and was directed to a worthy citizen for the needful. He accordingly called on the gentleman and asked the favor, when the following dialogue took place:
"Sir, do you take a newspaper?"
"Yes, sir; the S— O—"
"Very well; call on me in a day or two."
During the interval, the gentleman called at the printing office, and on inquiry found that the applicant for the money had paid his newspaper bill punctually when due.
On the young man calling on him at the time appointed, he said—
"You can have the money, sir, upon your note."

MY LOVED ONE AFAR.

A SONG—BY A. FULKERSON, JR.

TUNE—"Gallant Hussar."
Where runneth old Cumberland river,
So placidly, proudly along,
My loved one is dwelling in beauty—
To her let me warble this song.
When she wanders alone in the evening,
While Heaven has muffled a star,
All bright be the dreams of her bosom—
The dreams of my loved one afar!

Her ringlets are dark as the midnight
That swirls in the hurricane storm,
And gentle and fair as the rainbow,
Her ever engaging young form.
Her eyes are now beaming upon me
Like memory's beautiful star,
And softly around me is falling
The voice of my loved one afar!

When darkness wraps earth in its shadow,
And folded in slumber she lies,
May the angels come down from the heavens
And sing her the songs of the skies!

When soft in his glory advancing,
Rides forth in his fiery car,
May no happier spirit awaken,
Than that of my loved one afar!

Smiles.

Fair is the smile of a beautiful girl,
When the light of love in her eyes is beaming,
And fairer the smiles a young mother gives
In answer to that of her infant dreaming.

Fair too is the smile of a young man,
When he looks on his dear one's victory crown;
And fairer is that of a sweet little child,
When it gleefully welcomes its father home.

And, oh! how fair, after an evening storm,
The smiles of the sun on the hill-side lying;
But more beautiful far, than all these,
Is a tranquil smile of a Christian dying.

A Sunny Spot.

The headless foot may press the flowers,
And odors from them bring
Thus, oft, it strow's the dearest night
Faint's sweetest blossoms spring.

If thou hast sorrow's deepest tear,
Pitied the orphan's lot,
Then hast thou felt, amid the gloom,
There was a sunny spot.

SMALL DEBTS:

Or, What Five Dollars Paid.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

Mr. Herriot was sitting in his office one day, when a lad entered, and handed him a small slip of paper. It was a bill for five dollars, due to his shoemaker, a poor man who lived in the next square.

"Tell Mr. Grant I will settle this soon.
It isn't just convenient to-day."

The boy retired.
Now Mr. Herriot had a five dollar bill in his pocket; but he felt as if he could not part with it. He didn't like to be entirely out of money. So, acting from this impulse, he had sent the boy away.
Very silly, said Mr. Herriot, for the next five minutes; yet his thoughts were busy.
He was not altogether satisfied with himself. The shoemaker was a poor man, and needed his money as soon as earned
he was not unduly of this fact.

"I almost wish I had sent him the five dollars," said Mr. Herriot, at length, half audibly. "He wants it worse than I do."
He mused still farther.

"The fact is," he at length exclaimed, starting up, "it's Grant's money, and not mine; and what is more, he shall have it."

So saying, Herriot took up his hat and left his office.

"Did you get the money, Charles?"
said Grant, as his boy entered the shop.
There was a good deal of earnestness in the shoemaker's tones.

"No sir," replied the lad.
"Didn't get the money?"
"No sir."

"Wasn't Mr. Herriot in?"
"Yes sir; but he said it wasn't convenient to-day."

"Oh, dear! I'm sorry!" came from the shoemaker, in a depressed voice.

A woman was sitting in Grant's shop
when the boy came in, she had now risen, and was leaning on the counter; a look of disappointment was in her face.

"It can't be helped, Mrs. Lee," said Grant. "I was sure of getting the money from him. He never disappointed me before. Call in to-morrow, and I will try and have it for you."

The woman looked troubled as well as disappointed. Slowly she turned away and left the shop. A few minutes after her departure Herriot came in, and, after some words of apology, paid the bill.

"Run and get this bill changed into silver for me," said the shoemaker, to his boy, the moment his customer had departed.

"Now," said he, as soon as the silver was placed in his hands, "take two dollars to Mrs. Lee, and three to Mr. Weaver, across the street. Tell Mr. Weaver I am obliged to him for having loaned it to me this morning, and sorry that I hadn't as much in the house when he sent for it an hour ago."

"I wish I had it, Mrs. Elden. But I assure you that I have not," said Mr.
Weaver, the tailor. "I paid out the last dollar just before you came in. But call in to-morrow and you shall have the money to a certainty."

"But what am I to do to-day? I haven't a cent to bless me with; and I owe so much at the grocer's where I deal; that he won't trust me for anything more."

The tailor looked troubled, and the woman lingered. Just at this moment the shoemaker's boy entered.

"Here are the three dollars Mr. Grant borrowed of you this morning," said the
lad. "He says he's sorry he hadn't the money when you sent for it awhile ago."

How the faces of the tailor and his needle-woman brightened instantly, as if a gleam of sunshine had penetrated their room.

"Here is just the money I owe you,"
said the tailor, in a cheerful voice, and he handed the woman the three dollars he had received. A moment after and he was alone, but with the glad face of the poor woman, whose need he had been able to supply, distinct before him.

Of the three dollars received by the needle-woman, two went to the grocer, on account of her debt to him, half a dollar was paid to an old, needy colored woman who had earned it by scrubbing, and who was waiting for Mrs. Elden's return from the tailor's to get her due, and thus be able to provide an evening and morning's meal for herself and children.
The other half dollar was paid to the baker when he called toward evening to leave the accustomed loaf. Thus the poor needle-woman had been able to discharge three debts, and, at the same time re-establish her credit with the grocer and baker from whom came the largest portion of the food consumed in her little family.

And now let us follow Mrs. Lee. On her arrival at home, empty handed, from her visit to the shoemaker, who owed her two dollars for work, she found a young girl, in whose pale face were many marks
of suffering and care, awaiting her return.

The girl's countenance brightened as she came in, but there was no answering brightness in the countenance of Mrs.
Lee, who immediately said—

"I'm very sorry, Harriet, but Mr. Grant put me off until to-morrow. He said he hadn't a dollar in the house."

The girl's disappointment was very great, for the smile she had forced into life instantly faded, and was instantly succeeded by a look of deep distress.

"Do you want the money very badly?"
asked Mrs. Lee, in a low, half choked voice, for the sudden change in the girl's manner had affected her.

"O, yes, ma'am, very badly. I left Mary wrapped up in my thick shawl, and a blanket wound all around her feet, to keep them warm; but she was coughing dreadfully from the cold air of the room."

"Haven't you a fire?" asked Mrs. Lee, in a quick surprised tone.

"We have no coal. It was to buy coal that I wanted the money."

Mrs. Lee struck her hands together, and an expression of pain was about passing her lips, when the door of the room opened, and the shoemaker's boy came in.

"Here are two dollars. Mr. Grant sent them."

"God bless Mr. Grant!" The exclamation
from Mrs. Lee was involuntary.
On the part of Harriet, to whom one dollar was due, a gush of silent tears marked the effect this timely supply of money produced. She seized her portion, and without trusting her voice with words, hurried away to supply the pressing want
at home.

A few doors from the residence of Mrs.
Lee lived a man, who, for some time vefore, became involved in trouble with an evil disposed person, and been forced to defend himself by means of the law.

He had employed Mr. Herriot to do what was requisite in the case, for which service the charge was five dollars. The bill had been rendered a few days before,
and the man, who was poor, felt very anxious to pay it. He had the money all made up with the exception of one dollar. That dollar Mrs. Lee owed him and she had promised to give it to him during this day. For hours he had waited, expecting her to come in; but now he had nearly given her up. There was another little bill of three dollars which had been sent into him, and he had just concluded to go and pay that, when Mrs. Lee called with the balance of the money, one dollar, which she had received from the shoemaker, Grant.

Half an hour later and the pocketbook of Mr. Herriot was no longer empty.
His client had called and paid his bill.—
The five dollars had come back to him.

THE BARISTER AND THE WITNESS.—
There is a point beyond which human forbearance cannot go, and the most even
of tempers will become ruffled at times.
At the assizes held during the past year at Lincoln England, both judge and counsel had much trouble to make the timid witnesses upon a trial speak sufficiently loud so as to be heard by the jury, and it is possible that the temper of the counsel may thereby have been turned aside from the even tenor of its way. Before the gentlemen had gone through the various stages of bar pleading, and had coax-ed, threatened and even bullied witnesses
there was called into the box a young oster, who appeared to be simplicity personified.

"Now," said the counsel, in a tone that at any other time would have been denounced as vulgarly loud, "I hope we shall have no difficulty in making you speak up."

"I hope not, sir," was shouted or rather bellowed out by the witness, in tones which almost shook the building, and would certainly have alarmed any timid or nervous lady.

"How dare you speak in that way, sir?"
said the counsel.

"Please zur, I can't speak any louder," said the astonished witness, attempting to speak louder than before, evidently thinking the fault to be in his speaking too softly.

"Pray, have you been drinking this morning?" shouted the counsel, who had now thoroughly lost the last remnant of his temper.

"Yes, zur," was the reply.

"And what have you been drinking?"
"Coffee, zur."

"And what did you have in your coffee, sir?" shouted the exasperated counsel.

"A spume, zur," innocently shouted the witness, in his highest key, amidst the roars of the whole court—excepting only the now thoroughly wild counsel, who flung down his brief, and rushed out of the court.

DICK DAILY'S STUMP SPEECH.—Feller Citizens: This is a day for the popera-tion of Booneville, like a bob-tailed pullet
on a rickety hen-roost, to be looked up A crisis have arisen—an something's bust! Where are we? Here I is, and I stand here and expire from now till the day of synagogues, if you'd whop for Daily. Feller citizens—Jerusalem's to pay, and we haint got any pich. Our hyperbolic and majestic canal of creation has onshipped her rudder, and the Captin's broke his neck, and the cook's div to the depths of the vasy deep, in search of dimuns! Our wigwam's torn to pieces, like a shirt on a brush fence, and isty of these are latitudes is a van-ishin in a blue flame! Are such things to be did? I ask you in the name of the American Eagle, who whipped the shaggy-headed Lion of Great Britain, and now
sis a roostin on the magnetic telegraph.
If sich doins is a goin to be conglum-ated! I repeat to you in the name of the peacock of liberty when he's new in o'er the cloud capped summits of the Rocky Mountains, if we's goin extemporaneously bioggyoged in this fashion!

"Oh, answer me,
Let me not bust in ignorance!"

as Shakespeare says. Shall we be ham-boozled with sich unmitigated onducioussness? Meekness I hear you yelp—
"No, sir—hoss!" Then "lect me to Congress, and there will be a revolution."

Feller citizens—If I was standin on the adamantine throne of Jubiter, and the lightnings was a clashin around me, I'd continue to spout! I'm full of the bilin lather of Mount Etny, and I won't be quenched! I've sprung a leak, and must howl like a bear with a sore head. Flop there! jump into rank, and hear me throt! Feller citizens—You know me, and rip my lungs out with a nail-grob if I wouldn't suck to yer like brick-dust to a bar o' soap. Where's my opponent?

"—no where! He aint a cat-bird in a gar-ret to me! I was brought up among ye, feller citizens, and he was papped in a school house, but he cant get me with his h'aluin words. Hiccup, stricium, albroanto, canip, Brazel, Taggoony, and Baffin's Day! What do you think o' that?"

"Go it Porky—root hog, or d-i-e!"

as Shakespeare said when Cesar stabbed him in the House of Representatives.

Feller citizens—"Lect me to Congress, and I'll abolish mad dogs, muskeeters and bad cents, and go in for the teetotal annihilation of niggers, camp-meetings, and jails. I'll repudiate crows, and dustify hen hawks. I'll have barn raisins every day—Sundays excepted—and licker ecnough to swim a skunk. Yes, feller citizens, elect me to Congress, and I shall be led to exclaim in the sublime—the terrible language of Bonyparte, when preachin in the wilderness—

"Richard's himself again!"

On, then, onward to the polls—"gallop apex, fiery footed steeds," and make the welkin tremble with anti-spasmodic yells for Daily. Cock yer muskets—I'm comin—

"Hence ye, Brutus, broad-axe and glory!"
Let's licker!

WIT OF THE PRESIDENTIAL ASPIRANTS.—
An excellent story is told here, which I have not yet seen in print. During the recent great fair at Rochester, a number of gentlemen met at a dinner party there,
and among the galaxy of bright particular stars was the distinguished orator of the day, Stephen A. Douglas, and the distinguished ex-Secretary of War, Gov.
Marcy. The wit and the wine flew apace;
and at length Governor Marcy, with one of those knowing looks of his, arose and proposed "the health of Mr. Douglas, the able Senator from Illinois—may he continue for the next six years to fill his place in the Senate, which he has already so much graced." The meaning of the sally was evident, and Marcy's winked with delight at the "hit."

Nowise abashed, however, "the little gentle" straightened himself out, and after returning thanks, concluded by giving
"the distinguished ex-Secretary of War, Governor Marcy, with not a spot on his character, and but one patch on his breeches." Peals of laughter succeeded the happy retort, shortly after which the Governor was missing.—N. York Herald.

"Oh, VERY DEAR!"—A stranger dismounted at the door of the Hotel,
and gave his horse to the officious waiter.
The bar-keeper bustled around, and opened the register to receive his name.

"You are right," said the stranger, "a single room would be more agreeable,"
and he walked into the supper room to which the crowd of boarders were passing. The bar-keeper ran after him, and screaming in his ear—

"What name did you say?"
"Thank you," said he, "I can find the way—don't put yourself to any trouble, sir."

On his return to the bar-room, a waiter took up his saddle-bags, and told the deaf stranger he would show him to his room.

"My friend, who will spend the evening with me, prefers pale sherry," said he. "You may send up a bottle and a few cigars."

"I did not," said the bar-keeper exactly understand your name?"

"Yes; I think a little ice would improve the wine," was the answer. "And now I think of it, you may put the bottle in a wine cooler." His friend now joined him, and they walked to the room together. The deaf lodger patronized the house to the extent of another bottle before he slept. The waiter, who brought it up, ventured once more to inquire his name.

"No; nothing more," said he, "except a slice of cold ham, a pickle, and a little bread and cheese." The next morning after breakfast, when the stranger's horse was at the door, he asked for his bill.—

He was told it was six dollars and three quarters. "You are very kind," said he,
"I had expected to pay you, but if this is your custom, to charge nothing for it—
the first visit, you shall lose nothing by it—all my friends in Booneville will certainly give you at least one call, when they come into the city—good morning."

"I would thank you to pay your bill before you go!" screamed the bar-keeper, almost out of breath.

"I am obliged to you," said the deaf gentleman. "I can put them on," and he took up his saddle-bags and departed.
As he mounted, the bystanders began to laugh immoderately, at the awkward embarrassment which afflicted the bar-keeper, who was in despair, while he bawled
after the delinquent, who continued bowing and repeating his assurances that he would certainly remember the accommodations, civility, and liberality of the house, and recommend it to all his friends who might pass through the city. The gentleman who so well affected deafness, won the wager he had staked on the success of his scheme, and paid his bill the next time he visited the city.

LAW ANECDOTE.—The following is a literal extract of a deposition in the Irish Court of Common Pleas:

"And this deponent further saith, that,
on arriving at the house of said defendant situated in the county of Galway aforesaid, for the purpose of personally serving him with said writ, he, the said deponent, knocked three or four times at the outer, commonly called the hall door, but could not obtain admittance; whereupon this deponent was proceeding to knock the fourth time, when a man to this deponent unknown, holding in his hand a musket or blunderbuss, loaded with balls or slugs, as this deponent has since heard and verily believes, appeared at one of the upper windows of said house, and presenting said musket or blunderbuss at this deponent, said, that if said deponent did not instantly retire he would send his, deponent's soul to—, which the deponent verily believes he would have done, had not this deponent precipitately escaped."

A BRIGHT ONE.—"James," said a schoolmaster to a pupil, after the morning chapter had been read in the school;
"James, we have read this morning that Noah had three sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth; now, James, will you tell us who was the father of Shem, Ham, and Japheth?"

"Sir," said James, inquiringly.

"Why, James," answered the teacher,
"you have seen that Noah had three sons, and that their names were Shem, Ham, and Japheth. These were Noah's sons, James. Now, who was the father of Shem, Ham, and Japheth?"

"Sir," said James, dubiously pondering the full import of the query.

"Why, James," said the preceptor,
"don't you know who the father of Shem, Ham, and Japheth was, after I've told you so much?"

"No sir—I dun know."

"You are very dull, James—very!
You know Mr. Smith, don't you, that lives next to your house?"

"Sartin, sir!—Bill and Jo Smith and me play together. Bill took my crossbow, and owes me—"

"Very well; Mr. Smith has three boys, William, Joseph, and Henry. Who is the father of William, Joseph, and Henry Smith?"

"Mr. Smith!" exclaimed James, instantly. "Mr. Smith? guess I know that!"

"Certainly, James. Very well, then.
Now, this is exactly the same thing. You see, as we have been reading, that Noah had three sons, like Mr. Smith; but their names were Shem, Ham, and Japheth.
Now, who was the father of Noah's three sons?"

James hesitated a minute, with his finger in his mouth; and then, as if the difficult question had been suddenly solved
in his mind, he exclaimed:

"I know now: Mr. Smith!"

MORE DENTISTRY.—A country practitioner learning that the customary price in Boston for extracting a tooth was one dollar, he expressed great surprise, saying that with them one-quarter of that sum was the customary charge, which being thought very exorbitant, they were often obliged to take less, while sometimes they were not even paid at all, and gave an instance as follows:

Stepping into his chaise one day, he was hailed by a giant of a fellow, with his face banded up, who desired to have a tooth drawn. Being in a great hurry, the Professor told him he must wait, and he would do it on his return, but the fellow declared it must be done then, and wouldn't take "no" for an answer. Upon condition that he would make no trouble, and have it out without any words, the Professor just about to apply the instrument, the fellow cried out—"Stop! Stop!
Doctor, what do you charge?" On being told twenty-five cents, he leaped to his feet, and swore it was an imposition, and an attempt to take advantage of his misfortune; it was as much as he could earn to work all day—he said he wouldn't pay but twelve-and-a-half cents, for that was all he paid Dr. — to take out one,
he had to pull him all 'round the room to do it then. In a hurry to get away, the Professor acceded to the reduced rate,
and raised his hand to perform the operation, when the fellow bawled out: "Stop!
Stop! Doctor, will it hurt?" The Professor assured him it would, promising if it did not he wouldn't charge him a cent, and then applied the extractor. He soon found that the tooth was so large, and the jaw so very powerful, that the extra torture he had intended for his victim, by way of giving him his money's worth,

was entirely unnecessary, as it required several efforts with the extreme of his strength before the grinder gave way.
At length out it came, and the fellow rose from the chair, with the tears rolling down his cheeks, caused by the pain he had suffered.

"Did it hurt?" asked the Professor.

"Not a d—d bit!" was the reply, as the fellow placed his hat on his head, and left the office, congratulating himself that he had saved his money, and 'come it over the Doctor

THE TRIBUNE.

Published for the Proprietor by KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 26,
SENATE.

Mr. McHenry, from the Judiciary committee reported a bill to amend an act to regulate the retailing of ardent spirits, with an amendment: amendment adopted, and bill passed into the orders of the day.

Mr. Goodson moved to reconsider the vote by which the Senate refused to order the bill to suppress the practice of gambling to a third reading.

Mr. Shawhan called for the yeas and nays, which stood, yeas 21, nays 3. The vote was reconsidered and the bill referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

A resolution to "keep" Thanksgiving day was adopted by the Senate.

The resolution offered by Mr. Hove, of Mercer, to postpone the election of U. S. Senator until the session of the next Legislature, came up. The resolution was opposed by Mr. Irwin, and advocated by Mr. Hardin. Pending the consideration, a message was received from the House of Representatives announcing that a resolution had passed that body postponing the election of Senator until the 11th of December.

Mr. McHenry moved to amend the resolution so as to postpone the election till the 11th of December.

Mr. Irwin called for the yeas and nays, which stood, yeas 16, nays 19. So the amendment was rejected.

The Senate then adjourned.

Mr. Anderson, from the committee on Claims, reported the bill from the Senate for the benefit of Mr. Pruden, with an amendment. (The amendment proposes to pay Mr. Pruden $2,000 instead of $2,500, as embraced in the Senate bill.)

Mr. Williamson proposed to amend the committee's amendment, by striking out $2,000 and inserting $1,500. The motion came up to a vote, and the motion to strike out and insert $1,500 prevailed by a vote of 78 yeas to 17 nays. The bill then passed by yeas 86, nays 6.

Mr. McKee, from the committee on the Judiciary, reported a bill to charter the Lexington and Cumberland railroad company; the bill was referred to the committee on Internal Improvement.

Mr. Sheppard, from the Judiciary committee asked to be discharged from leave to bring in a bill to provide for a geological survey; discharged, and leave referred to committee on Education.

After considerable debate, the House adopted a resolution postponing the election of U. S. Senator until the 11th day of December—yeas 51, nays 47.

Mr. Sheppard offered the following resolution, which was adopted, viz:

That when this House adjourns to-day it adjourn till Friday, the 23rd inst.

FRIDAY, Nov. 28.

SENATE.

Mr. McHenry reported a bill for the benefit of married women, with the opinion that it ought not to pass.

Mr. McHenry supported the report of the committee to agree to the bill. He was opposed to the principle of creating two heads to each family, and making them entirely independent of the father. On the contrary he believed that the step already taken by the legislature in this matter was substantially wrong, and he was opposed to any further action on the subject.

On motion of Mr. Preston, the bill was made a special order for the 24 of December.

The clerk then announced Mr. Hove's resolution, postponing the election of U. S. Senator for the present session, and the yeas and nays being taken thereon, stood, yeas 23, nays 14.

Mr. Hove was appointed to convey the resolution to the H. R.

Resolution from the H. R. postponing the election of a U. S. Senator until the 11th of December next.

On motion of Mr. Preston, the previous question was ordered, and the yeas and nays being taken on the passage of the resolution, stood yeas 19, nays 13.

A bill to amend an act entitled, an act to regulate the retailing of ardent spirits. The yeas and nays being taken on the passage of the bill stood—yeas 20, nays 12.

HOUSE.

A message was received from the Senate by Mr. Senator Preston, announcing their concurrence in the resolution of this House postponing the election of U. S. Senator to the 11th day of December.

The resolution from the Senate postponing the election of Senator until the next session of the Legislature came up in the orders of the day.

Mr. Anderson moved to lay said resolution on the table, and the yeas and nays being called on this motion, stood, yeas 60, nays 40.

So the resolution was laid on the table.

Mr. Winters moved that when the House adjourns to-day, it adjourn to meet again on Monday—to give the visiting committees time to visit the Benevolent Institutions; which motion was adopted.

SATURDAY, Nov. 29.

SENATE.

Mr. Hardin, from the committee on Finance, reported upon the petitions asking appropriations of money for the purpose of colonizing the free blacks of this Commonwealth, with the opinion that they should be rejected. Opinion concurred in.

After a protracted debate the committee rose, reported progress, and asked and obtained leave to sit again.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.

SENATE.—The Senate was opened at 12 M., by an appropriate prayer by the Rev. Mr. Butler.

All the Senators were present, except Messrs. B. Albany, Hunter, Stockton, Sebastian, Mangum, Badger, Butler, Rhet, Jeff Davis, S. Davis, Ball, Jones, of Tenn., Douglass, Borah, Houston, and Rusk.

The credentials of new members were then presented by various Senators and the oaths as prescribed by the Constitution were administered.

Then the certificate from Florida, of the election of Stephen R. Mallory, as Senator from the 4th of March last, was presented by Mr. Webster. He also presented a copy of the journal of the Legislature of Florida with a record of certain proceedings which were considered by Hon. B. S. Yule as evidence of his having been elected. The two papers having been read, the chair said it was a question for the Senate to decide upon whether the papers presented entitled to a seat.

Mr. Bright moved the reference of the papers to select committee, on which considerable debate ensued in which Messrs. Clay, Foote, and others took part. Finally Mr. Bright withdrew his motion, and Mr. Mallory was admitted to a seat. Subsequently the papers were referred to a committee, to be selected to-morrow.

HOUSE.—The House of Representatives met at 12 o'clock—218 members were present.

Mr. Jones, of Tenn., nominated Mr. Boyd, of Ky., as the compromise candidate for Speaker, and as such said he should support him.

Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, nominated Thaddeus Stevens, of Pa., as a good Whig.

Upon these nominations a spirited debate ensued involving the soundness of the Whigs and Democrats upon the compromise question. The House then proceeded to ballot for Speaker.

Upwards of twenty candidates for Speaker were voted for.

Linn Boyd received 113 out of 212 yeas cast, and was declared elected. He was conducted to the chair and made a short speech.

The members were then sworn in.

The House then proceeded to ballot for Clerk. J. W. Furney received 120 yeas, and all the others 79. Furney, thereupon, was declared elected.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.

SENATE.—The Senate met at 12 M.

Mr. Foster gave notice that he would introduce a joint resolution expressing sympathy for the exiled Irish patriots, Smith O'Brien, Meagher, and their companions.

The message of the President was received at half past 1 P. M., and after its reading, on motion of Mr. Pierce, 100,000 extra copies were ordered to be printed with the accompanying documents.

Mr. Foster introduced a resolution for a joint committee of the two Houses, to make arrangements for the reception and entertainment of Kossuth.

Mr. Foster gave notice that he should, on to-morrow, offer a resolution declaring the measure of the "adjuvment" of last Congress as a definite settlement of the question growing out of the system of domestic slavery.

The Senate then adjourned.

HOUSE.—The House met at 11 A. M.

A debate arose upon a resolution to furnish the members with newspapers.

The whole subject of extravagance and economy was treated at length. Finally, it was agreed to allow to each member $30 worth of newspapers.

The message of the President was received at half past 1 P. M., and read.

On motion of Mr. Bailey, the usual number of copies and 15,000 extra, with the accompanying documents, were ordered to be printed.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

New York, Nov. 29.

The steamer Cherokee, from Chagres, arrived to-day. She had dates from San Francisco to Nov. 1st, and had $1,952,000 gold and freight, and $313,900 in the hands of passengers. She also brings the California mails.

In reference to the charge against Capt. Waterman, most of the papers doubt them. The Courier denounces Capt. W. in the strongest terms, and demands to know the fate of nine of his men, four of whom it is said were shaken from the muzzled to sea, and the sea and drowned; five died of wounds from the vessel got up, and has remained concealed since. Rumors of the capture had reached the city prior to her arrival.

val, and a great crowd assembled at the wharf and boarded her as soon as she touched. The mate made a narrow escape of his life in a boat.

The Courier says they heard that Capt. W. was arrested on the 51st. The Herald and Alta California, without even allowing the reported deaths to have occurred, say they have been assured no punishment had been inflicted than was necessary to maintain the discipline of the sailors.

The accounts from the mining districts continue most favorable. New discoveries of gold are constantly being made. The reports that the rainy season had set in is wholly unfounded. The weather on the contrary continues favorable for mining operations.

The agricultural interests are prosperous.

The division of the State is daily assuming more importance. A convention met at Santa Barbara, Oct. 20th Don Jose Antonio Carrillo of Los Angeles was elected President. A great diversity of opinion prevailed in the convention, and after a session of three days adjourned by passing several resolutions by a small majority, one of which designates the line of division for the Southern territory to commence at a point not further North than the N. W. line of Santa Clara county and not further South than the northern boundary of Monterey.

The market has been inanimate owing to the extreme fine weather and large arrivals, there being no speculative demand, and the business done is at a small profit. The market continues unstocked. Boots and Shoes are abundant. Holders of Flour look confidently to an advance. Corn and Hays are in good supply. Clothing is doing better, stock heavy. Nothing short of an expert demand for Coffee can moderate the market. Sales of Lumber moderate, prices steady. Oils are in great request. Hams meet ready sale at rather lower prices. Pork is dull. Good Butter is in demand. Lard has improved and tends upward. Candles are heavy. Dry Goods unchanged.

The Alta California says the state of the market is such that close quotations are out of the question. Clean gold dust $17. Money rates range from 3/4 to 1/2 cent. Samson's wages are lower. Exchanges on New York—Sight 2 1/2 cent premium.

In Sacramento the business prospects are decidedly more favorable. Winter clothing has advanced 25 per cent. Bricks are in good demand. Liquors are much lower. Metals are doing rather better. Tobacco is difficult to sale.

EDITOR AND PATRON.—There is so much good sense in the following remarks, taken from the Eastern (Maine). Argue, that we can not forego the temptation to let our readers enjoy the perusal of the article. The editor says:

It is good to be temperate in all things—even in one's judgment of newspapers. Yet some times this temperate judgment seems sadly wanting. While there are differences of opinion in the world, an editor may always expect to hear his paper and himself occasionally denounced, either by those who are thoughtful of his position, or by those who are not so generous enough to regard it. This reader thinks he has too much politics, and that one too much miscellany. And that one not so much about slavery, and that one not so much about liquor law, and would like to see the paper loaded with articles supporting it. And that one opposes the law, and gets enraged whenever he sees an article in its defense. It is Franklin's (11) story over again, of the hater's sign, which was so changed to suit the various criticisms of the hater's friend, that finally there was nothing left of it but the plain unadorned board. No newspaper was ever yet published which satisfied every one; and however carefully prepared it may be, there are usually some who will throw it by, after reading it, and declare there's nothing in it. They will generally look out, though, for the next number to see if there's nothing in that too. But after all, every sensible man will feel, upon reflection, that to censure a newspaper because it sometimes contains an article that is not to his taste, is hardly just. The article will suit somebody else, if not him; and in the same sheet he may find several articles which exactly suit him but do not suit his neighbor. If, on the whole the influence of the paper is for good, and he approves of its general subject, let him not complain because it endeavors to give all its readers a fair chance.

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond (Va.) Whig, in his letter of the 9th ult., speaks as follows of the state of affairs then existing at the Capitol:

"All is exceedingly quiet here. This is a very calm administration. The men themselves are old and sturdy sailors, who have seen many a blow, and whether it be fair weather or foul, always 'have their land rights aboard,' and handle their vessel right, all be smooth, or let it 'blow green guns.' A better commander, too, than they have, has seldom trod a quarter-deck. His coolness, his mental, and his seamanship are such as inspire confidence in the officers and crew alike, and keep everything right and trim, from stem to stern, and from keel to top gallant mast peak."

ANOTHER RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—ATROCIOUS VILLAINY.—As the passenger train of cars from Frankfort were on their way down Friday evening, the locomotive was thrown from the track when about three miles this side of Logansport, by running over a heavy T rail that had been laid across the track by some malicious villain. On examination, it was discovered that a short distance further on, a heavy log had been rolled across the track, and still further on, some fence rails were so placed they would have torn the cars to pieces or thrown them from the track. The locomotive was not seriously injured, and the passenger cars were not thrown off. The passengers returned to Logansport, where they remained all night, and the track having in the meantime been cleared, the train arrived here at noon Saturday.

We understand that at a meeting of the Board of Directors, a reward of $500 was offered for the arrest of the perpetrators of the outrage.—Log. Cour. 1st.

HON. J. L. BRIDGES.—This gentleman is decidedly a popular Judge, and deservedly so. We clip the following notice of his recent Court in Garrard county, from the Banner of last week:

The November term of the Garrard Circuit Court closed on Saturday last, at 10 o'clock A. M., and our able and accomplished Judge, J. L. Bridges, left us apparently as active and vigorous as he was at the commencement of the session. Although Judge B. is now upwards of seventy years of age, and has been forty years upon the bench, he opens his Court regularly at 8 o'clock in the morning, and closes at five in the evening. We have been informed that during the two weeks term referred to, there has been a greater amount of business dispatched, than at any previous term of the Court. In addition to a multitude of Common Law Suits, a large number of old chancery causes, which have been standing on the docket for many years have been heard and determined to the gratification of lawyers, litigants, and the officers of the Court. Judge Bridges is truly a working man, and disposes of business with greater ease and facility than perhaps any other Judge in Kentucky. His pre-eminence qualifications for the office, are well known to the public, and his election in May last, was convincing proof that the people in selecting Judges were not to be caught by demagoguery.

WE find the following communication in the Lexington Observer and Reporter of last week. The wrongs of which the correspondent complains should be speedily attended to, and we hope that, at least so far as the road from this place to Lexington is concerned, those whose duty it is, will immediately see to it:

Mr. Editor:—It is time for the attention of the public to be awakened to the many encroachments that have been made on the Danville and Mayville Turnpike roads. The subject is of very great importance, when we consider that these encroachments are entirely illegal, besides rendering the roads highly dangerous, by the moving out of fences, and building out of stone walls. The Danville road, particularly, will soon be narrowed to a mere lane in some places, and in the event of horses starting attached to any vehicle, escape would be almost impossible. By referring to the charters of the roads, we find that the Mayville road was surveyed at sixty feet, and the Danville at fifty. They were designed for the growing of shade trees on either side for use and for ornament. Now is it right that the law should be disregarded and the lives of travelers thus endangered on a road which demands from them a toll for its use? Should not the members of the Legislature be acquainted with these facts, and is it not their duty to protect the public against these infringements. A SUBSCRIBER.

THE BOMB SHELL LINE.—Somebody speaking of the hurrying propensities of Yankees, says:

"If a mortar could be constructed, which would throw an immense bomb-shell, containing fifteen passengers, from St. Louis to Boston in five minutes, with an absolute certainty that fourteen out of the fifteen would be killed by the explosion, tickets for state rooms by the 'Express Bomb-shell Line,' would at once be at a premium; each passenger being anxious for the chance to prove himself the 'lucky fifteenth.'"

An English paper speaking of Brother Jonathan, says:

The waist of his coat may be ridiculously short; the tail of it ridiculously long; his shirt collar may absorb the produce of a whole field of flax; his pantaloons may not come below the top of his boots; and his straps may look as though they were intended to prevent the pants from going over his head; he may be, in short, the most unrepresentative man you can conceive of; but beneath the uncouthness of his dress and the awkwardness of his manner, there is such a man, and such a soul, as only Yankeeedom and the 19th century can produce.

LARD CANDLES.—John M. Hoisington, of Greenbush, Illinois, gives the following receipt in the New England Farmer, for making candles from lard.

To twelve casts (or pounds) of lard, add one part alum and saltpetre; dissolve the alum and saltpetre in water; put the whole in some convenient vessel, over a slow fire, until the water is evaporated, stirring the mixture so as to prevent the alum and saltpetre from settling at the bottom. Then mould your candles, and you will never want to use a lamp about your house again.

THE TRIBUNE.

AN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH.

DANVILLE, KY.: FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 5, 1851.

For President in 1852,
MILLARD FILLMORE,
OF NEW YORK.

For Vice President,
JOHN J. CRITTENDEN,
OF KENTUCKY.

Notice the advertisements of Messrs. Jas. M. Nichols, L. Dismitt, and G. W. Hewey.

CARRIAGE REPOSITORY.—We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. S. E. FARRAND'S Carriage Repository. Mr. F. has on hand a large and superior stock of Carriages of every description, which he warrants to be of the best workmanship and finish, and which he is selling as low as they can be had in any of the cities. Among his large assortment of Family Coaches, he has one of the finest articles in that line we have ever seen. Indeed, we doubt whether a finer coach has ever been brought to the west. It is well worth a visit to his Repository to see it, even if he had no other work on hand. There is now no necessity for individuals desiring to purchase any kind of a carriage to go out of Danville, as Mr. F. can accommodate them with as fine, as good, and as cheap an article as can be had in any other market.

WATER CURE.—We refer our readers to the advertisement of Dr. E. B. THOMAS, Hydropathic Physician, in this place. Dr. T. is spoken of by all who understand his mode of treatment, as an eminent and successful physician, and is fully prepared to receive and accommodate any number of patients who may desire his services.

"Grand Musical Tour through the United States!"—The first and only Lyric Entertainment given in this city on Tuesday evening last, by the celebrated vocalist, Madame ROSALIE DURAND, assisted by the eminent basso, Signor ANTONIO NOVELLI, lately from numerous Italian Opera Houses, was decidedly one of "em!" Further comment is unnecessary.

"THE BLOOMERS."—A company of strolling singers and dancers, belonging to the "Hill Family," were advertised to give a concert in this place a few weeks since, but failed to keep their appointment. They left for "parts unknown," without paying the bill due us for printing, and we caution our brethren of the craft to keep a sharp look out for them. The ladies are represented as being passable performers on the tambourine, and quite accomplished in the dancing of old-fashioned "hoe-downs," while the violinist is said to be a very common player on a "cracked fiddle." "Pass them around!"

THE DIFFICULTY AT BETHANY COLLEGE.—We have lately noticed in many of our exchanges, the most exaggerated accounts of a recent difficulty which occurred at Bethany, Va., between a young Mr. Talbot, of this place, and a Mr. Bond, both students in the College. In all those accounts it is stated, that Mr. Bond has, since the affray, died from the effects of the wound he received, which statement is altogether incorrect, as will be seen by the following note, which we find in the Lexington Observer and Reporter:

FAVETTE CO., KY., Nov. 26, '51.
Mr. W. H. H. is stated in the Observer and Reporter, of Wednesday last, that a murder has been committed at Bethany College, Va., which is certainly a mistake. It is true that a difficulty occurred between a Mr. Talbot and a Mr. Bond, in which Bond was stabbed, but the wound was not mortal, and from which he quickly recovered. The above is a true state of the case, as I have received it directly from Bethany.

SAM'L COLEMAN.
We have the most satisfactory assurance that Mr. Coleman's statement is correct. The wound was a slight one, from which Mr. Bond soon recovered, and has been in attendance upon his duties in College since a few days after the difficulty occurred. The character of the difficulty, and the circumstances connected with those set forth in the extract heretofore published in the Lexington Observer, and elsewhere. Injustice was done Mr. Talbot in that statement, but it would be a useless labor now to correct it in detail.

A memorial has been addressed to the Legislature by a committee appointed by the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance of this State, praying that the General Assembly pass an act submitting to the people of Kentucky the question—"Whether they are in favor of or opposed to the passage of a law for the suppression of the traffic in spirituous liquors?"

ORGANIZATION OF CONGRESS.—THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.—By reference to another part of our paper, it will be seen that the House of Representatives of the 32d Congress organized without any difficulty on Monday, by the election of Hon. LYNN BOYD, of this State, to the Speakership, and John W. Forney, of Pennsylvania, Clerk.

The President's Message was delivered to the two Houses on Tuesday at noon. We very much regret the utter impossibility of our being able to place the message before our readers this morning. We did not receive a copy until late Wednesday evening, after the first and fourth pages of our paper were printed, and a large portion of the remaining two pages in type. The message is quite lengthy, and will make at least two full pages of the Tribune—perhaps more; but notwithstanding its length, had it been possible, under all the circumstances, our readers should have had it this morning. We are seldom behind any of our contemporaries of the "country press" in getting out such documents, and we will use our endeavors to issue an extra containing the message, perhaps to-morrow, if we are not disappointed in our present arrangements.

In the meantime, we give below, that portion of the message which refers most particularly to the compromise measures, and to the peace and prosperity with which our country is at present blessed: I congratulate you and our common constituency upon the favorable auspices under which you meet for your first session. Our country is at peace with all the world. The agitation which, for a time, threatened to disturb the fraternal relations which make us one people, is fast subsiding; and a year of general prosperity and health has crowned the nation with unusual blessings. None can look back to the dangers which were passed, or forward to the bright prospect before us, without feeling a thrill of gratification, at the same time that he must be impressed with a grateful sense of our profound obligations to a beneficent Providence, whose paternal care is so manifest in the happiness of this highly favored land.

In my last annual message I stated that I considered the series of measures, which had been adopted at the previous session, in reference to the agitation growing out of the Territorial and slavery questions, as a final settlement in principle and substance of the dangerous and exciting subjects which they embraced, and I recommended adherence to the adjustment established by those measures, until time and experience should demonstrate the necessity of further legislation to guard against evasion or abuse. I was not induced to make this recommendation because I thought those measures perfect, for no human legislation can be perfect. Wide differences and jarring opinions can only be reconciled by yielding something on all sides, and this result had been reached after an angry conflict of many months, in which one part of the country was arrayed against another, and violent convulsion seemed to be imminent. Looking at the interests of the whole country, I felt it to be my duty to seize upon this compromise as the best that could be obtained amid conflicting interests, and to insist upon it as a final settlement, to be adhered to by all who value the peace and welfare of the country. A year has now elapsed since that recommendation was made. To that recommendation I still adhere, and I congratulate you and the country upon the general acquiescence in the measures of peace, which has been exhibited in all parts of the Republic. And not only is there this general acquiescence in these measures, but the spirit of conciliation which has been manifested in regard to them in all parts of the country, has removed doubts and uncertainties in the minds of thousands of good men concerning the durability of our popular institutions, and given renewed assurance that our Liberty and our Union may subsist together for the benefit of this and all succeeding generations.

LOCOFISCOISM AND THE COMPROMISE.—A telegraphic dispatch from Washington gives the information that the Caucus of Democratic Congressmen held on Saturday night last, refused to endorse the Compromise! Resolutions approving the Compromise as a party platform were offered by Col. Polk, brother of the late President, and laid on the table by a vote of 59 to 30. It is quite evident from this act of a large number of the leaders, that Locofiscism is ready and willing to sacrifice anything to please the Free-Soilers and Secessionists, by whose aid they hope to elect a President.

LOUISVILLE MARKET, DEC. 2.—Old Mess Pork is offered at $12. Sales of green Meat at 4c for shoulders and 6 1/2c for hams. 300 kegs new prime Lard sold at 8 1/2c. Flour selling at $3.20@3.50, according to quality. Wheat 53@57c. Rio Coffee 9 1/2c. Light sales of new Sugar at 5 1/2@6c.

"SONNETS GAZETTE."—We have received the first number of a new Whig paper bearing the above title, and published in Somerset, Ky., by John P. BRUCE, Esq. The Gazette is very neatly printed, and edited with considerable ability. Here's our G. John, with the hope that your subscription book may be well filled with the names of prompt paying patrons.

The Louisville Courier States that freights from that city have declined to the following prices: to New Orleans, 26c from Portland, and 30c from the city wharf for pound freights. To Mobile, 40c. To Pittsburg, 16 to 18c.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION.—A bill has been introduced into the Legislature, providing for the exemption of a homestead from forced sale for debt. We have not seen the bill in detail, but we know that the present exemption laws of Kentucky need much amendment, and the principle has our hearty approval. Several of the adjoining and distant States have adopted such laws, and we are not willing to see ours behind any in this philanthropic movement. It is a matter of a truly benevolent character, but while it protects the unfortunate, it does no injustice to the creditor. If such a law is passed, it will have reference only to contracts hereafter made, and not to those already in existence. We again express the hope, that a liberal, though judicious homestead exemption law may be adopted by the present Legislature.

WHIG STATE CONVENTION.—The Shelby News proposes a Whig State Convention, to be held at Frankfort, on the 23d of February next, to nominate delegates to the National Convention, and for other purposes. We most cordially approve of the suggestion, and hope to see it acted out. The Whigs in all the counties of the State should immediately hold county meetings and appoint their delegates to attend the Convention. There is but little time for delay, and it is high time the Whigs of Kentucky were at work.

STEAMBOAT ACCIDENT.—A despatch from St. Louis, dated the 27th ult., says: "The steamers Archer, ascending, and the Vernon, descending, came in collision this morning, about 2 o'clock, 5 miles below the mouth of Illinois river. The Archer was sunk and sunk in 15 feet water. About 30 lives were lost."

DEMOCRATIC UNION.—The Locofoco papers in this State present just now, a beautiful specimen of united (!) action in regard to the approaching canvass for the Presidency. The Frankfort Yeoman and Kentucky Flag are in favor of Gen. Butler as the candidate of the party; the Louisville Democrat is for Douglas; the Hopkinsville Press for Buchanan; and the Harrodsburg Ploughboy and Hickman Argus are in favor of Gen. Cass. Several of their papers are yet uncommitted on the subject, but they may be expected to come out shortly, like shot from an old blunderbuss, scattering here, there, and yonder. All this looks rather strange to us, when we consider that in many parts of the Union there is a strong move being made in favor of Gen. Butler, of this State, and we certainly would expect Kentucky Loco editors to make him their first choice. But these Locofocos are great braggarts of their "consistency," and we suppose this is a sample of it.

LOUISVILLE BULLETIN.—We have for some weeks been in the receipt of the Louisville Evening Bulletin, and the Louisville Weekly Bulletin, new daily and weekly papers, published by Prentice and Weissinger. They are family journals, being neutral in politics, and contain all the choice reading which appears in the Louisville Journal. The weekly is one of the largest, handsomest and best filled sheets we have ever seen, and both are eminently deserving of patronage. The terms of the Daily are $4 per annum in advance or three copies for $10. The Weekly is published at $1 per annum; 6 copies for $5; 20 copies for $15.

A Washington despatch of the 2d inst., says instructions have been sent to the American Minister in Spain, directing him to interfere in behalf of the American prisoners now in that country.

The co-operation convention of South Carolina met at Columbia on Saturday, and adopted a series of resolutions against separate State action. They also invite the union of separate secessionists with themselves, and urge a zealous effort to further co-operation. So says a late despatch.

Mississippi is now without a Governor, that office having become vacant by the resignation of Quitman. The Secretary of State has issued a proclamation calling the Senate together, that a President thereof may be chosen to exercise the office of Governor until the 1st of January.

The Springfield Mercury, of the 29th ult., says: "On last Saturday, a young man by the name of Prather was killed in the northern part of this county. He was riding a race, when his horse threw him, killing him almost instantly."

Effects of Railroads.—From an article in the last Harrodsburg Ploughboy, on the subject of Railroads, written by Dr. Graham, and addressed to the voters of Mercer, we make the following extract:

A recent travel over more than two thousand miles of railroad, has justified all, and more than all I have said; observing flourishing villages rise up as if by enchantment, amidst green swamps or barren rocks; and seeing, upon whole lines of railroads, thousands upon thousands of laborers, some clearing forests and converting them into lumber; others disembarking from the depths of the earth treasures that had slumbered through ages, convinced me of the wonderful utility of railroad enterprises.

RAILROAD FROM CINCINNATI, THROUGH DANVILLE, &c., TO CHARLESTON AND SAVANNAH.—The American Railroad Journal says the project which, in 1836, engrossed so much attention and interest throughout the Southern and Western States, that of a Railroad from Cincinnati to Charleston, seems now likely to be realized at a comparatively early period. The old project of the Charleston and Cincinnati Railroad was founded upon general ideas of the wants of our internal commerce; but with the little knowledge which then existed as to the proper route, the limited means at command, and the slight experience which then existed in railroading, a scheme of such magnitude, involving the construction of 800 miles of railroad, most of it through a country but thinly settled, could hardly help falling through. During the 15 years that have since elapsed, great changes have taken place. Companies having local objects in view merely, have already reached the Tennessee river, and a continuous line of railroad will soon be formed between the cities of Charleston and Savannah, and Knoxville, the chief town in East Tennessee, which is 518 miles from the former and 302 from the latter. On the northern end of the line, the road is under contract from Lexington to Lexington, 100 miles. From Lexington to Danville, 27 miles. Sufficient means are provided, and this link will soon be put under contract. From Danville to Knoxville, the distance is 180 miles, making the whole length between the points named as follows:

Cincinnati to Danville, via Lexington, 133 miles.	130 "
Danville to Knoxville, 180 "	110 "
Danville to Dalton, Ga., 100 "	100 "
Danville to Atlanta, 292 "	292 "
To Charleston, 810 "	810 "
Cincinnati to Atlanta, as above, 518 "	518 "
Atlanta to Augusta, Ga., 171 "	171 "
Augusta to Charleston, 137 "	137 "
	826 "

No steps, continues the Journal, are yet taken towards the construction of the link between Danville and Knoxville; but when we consider the vast utility of a railroad communication between the south and the Ohio river, and that of the whole line, the construction of more than three-quarters is already secured, that of the part untouched, the greater portion can easily be built by the people on the route, and as the roads either finished or in progress have the strongest interest in supplying this gap, we cannot believe it will long remain unfiled.

Louisville as well as Cincinnati would be connected with this route; and as both of these cities will shortly be connected with the great Lakes and the Mississippi, the early completion of the line from Danville to Knoxville becomes still more important. If the people upon the line of the road could prepare it for the iron, we cannot doubt that the numerous companies interested in having the connection formed would provide the means for the article.

The great project of South Carolina seems at last to be on the eve of accomplishment, though upon a very different line, and in a very different manner from that originally contemplated. The realization of this great project, which cannot fail to add very largely to the commercial importance of Charleston, and the prosperity of the whole State, will, it is hoped, have a salutary influence upon the present discomfited feelings of her people.

RAILROAD VOTE IN MERCER.—By the following letter from a friend in Harrodsburg, it will be seen that Mercer county has voted in favor of the railroad tax:

HARRODSBURG, Dec. 3, 1851.
MESSRS. ZIMMERMAN—

Dear Sirs: Old Mercer has at last taken her stand side by side with her ancient rival in public spirit. The lion was slow to awake, but when aroused, he cleared the field, and this morning Mercer county rejoices in the anticipated good to result to her citizens from their labor of yesterday.

You doubtless feel some interest to know how we voted yesterday. We voted to issue our county bonds for $200,000, to aid in constructing a Branch Railroad to intersect the Louisville and Frankfort Railroad, by a majority of 374 votes! Now, let your patriotism make you shout, "Huzza for old Mercer!" Wait a little—old Harrodsburg is some!—her entire vote was cast for the road—not one dissenting! Now, you may huzza for Harrodsburg. Huzza! Huzza!! J. W. C.

The Legislature has postponed further balloting for U. S. Senator until the 11th of the present month. The Louisville Journal of Monday, in reference to the election, gives us the following information:

THE SENATORIAL ELECTION.—The Whigs of the Legislature held a caucus last week, in order to agree, if possible, on a candidate to be supported for the U. S. Senate. There was no agreement, some dispute arising as to the result of the balloting.

The election has been postponed to the 11th of the present month. Some of the prominent Whig members, we learn, have proposed, or are about to propose, that a committee, consisting of equal numbers of the friends of Messrs. Crittenden and Dixon, shall report to a caucus, to be held on the evening of the 9th inst., a fair and just plan for accomplishing the election of a Whig Senator.

A fact related in the New York Star, may be worthy the consideration of business men. The editor says that in running over the list of heavy failures which have occurred in that city, he does not find the names of a single house that had advertised extensively in any popular medium.

ITEMS.—The Glasgow Reveille says that the railroad tax was carried by a large majority in Green county, on Saturday week. There is to be a poultry exhibition at Masonic Hall, Cincinnati, on the 10th and 11th of December. The official returns in Wisconsin cut down Mr. Farwell's majority for Governor to about 400. Nine beautiful meteors were seen at one time in the heavens, south of Williamsport, Md., on Wednesday night week. The Shelby News speaks cheerfully of the prospects for completing, during the next year, the railroad from that place to Louisville.

A respectable citizen of Barren county, by the name of Dodd committed suicide on Saturday last by hanging himself. Kosuth is expected to reach New York on the 5th of December. A petition is in circulation throughout Pennsylvania, to prohibit entirely the sale of intoxicating liquors in that State. The Washington Republic says that Gen. Butler is the most formidable of the Opposition candidates for the Presidency. Santa Anna is again talked of by the Mexicans as the only man who can save their country. Nearly 200,000 dollars have been raised in Cuba, for the benefit of the families of those who were killed during the recent invasion. "Cheap Postage" is still the cry. One cent all distances, and always pre-paid.

ELSWORTH AGAIN.—This very justly celebrated pedestrian has been engaged to perform at Mobile a more remarkable feat of walking than that he has just accomplished at St. Louis. He commenced on the 30th November, under a heavy wager, to walk 500 miles in 250 consecutive hours, or two miles per hour for the whole time.

At the late Educational Convention held at Frankfort, resolutions were adopted, recommending, among other things, that the same text books be used throughout the State—that proper attention be paid to the location and construction of school houses—that teachers and heads of families form educational associations in each county—that the system of general education now adopted should be made to embrace a higher system of schools, and that adequate provision be made for the training of teachers for the common schools.

Now, if these resolutions are acted out, as we hope they will be, much and lasting good will result to the cause of education; but, as a contemporary very truly remarks, in these times, as a general thing, all action ceases with the resolves of conventions.

A correspondent of the New York Express says, that Brigham Young will be removed from office as Governor of Utah, in consequence of his high-handed proceedings as reported by the last arrival from the territory. The writer apprehends, for the future, considerable difficulties with the Mormons, and that it will be necessary to establish our government there with two or three regiments of soldiers.

California Sheriffs are pretty well paid. The law in regard to them allows three dollars for serving a summons or any other process, by which an action is commenced; for travel, fifty cents per mile, for a bond two dollars; for a certified copy of the bond, one dollar; for serving a subpoena, for each witness, one dollar; and for every mile travelled in serving it, one dollar.

THE FIRE ANNILATOR.—The New York Herald understands that the chemical composition required to charge the fire annihilator cannot be made in New York, that all experiments to that end have failed; and that before a public exhibition of the annihilating capacities of the machine can be expected, some of the vessels, already loaded, will have to be procured from England. The Herald thinks it may, therefore, be a month yet before the present fire department will resign. Meantime, it learns that Mr. Paine is still working at his gas.

TRAGEDY IN NORTH CAROLINA.—On Saturday week, as Col. W. W. Avery was passing to his hotel from the court house at Marion, N. C., he was attacked by Samuel Fleming, who was concerned in a case in which Col. Avery was one of the counsel, and severely beaten. On Tuesday following, at Morgantown, just after Judge Battle took his seat on the bench, Fleming, fully armed, walked within the bar, in the presence of Col. Avery, who immediately arose from his seat, and shot him dead on the spot, and then gave himself up.

The German correspondent of the London Globe under date of Oct. 31, says: At Hamburg an experiment has been made with Philip's "Fire Annihilator." A wooden shed filled with combustibles was set on fire, and an attempt made to set the "Annihilator" at work; but the heat was too great to permit of approach; a fireman was near becoming a victim of the experiment, and at last it was found necessary to use a common water engine, which extinguished the flames in ten minutes.

A car for smokers is one of the last additions to some of our railroads.

The persons who leased the right to sell refreshments in the Crystal Palace are said to have realized the snug little bit of pocket money, of $500,000, by the operation. Encouraged, probably, by the prosperity of this venture, a new speculator offers $25,000 for the right to pick up such lost articles as fell through the crevices of the floor upon the ground beneath.

The citizens of Franklin county voted on Tuesday last, by a majority of about 100, to issue the county bonds for $200,000 to aid in constructing the Branch Railroad to Harrodsburg.

HOGS.—There is an increased firmness in the market, and buyers are more plenty at $4.50 net, for good hogs for packing, at which price many lots, some distance in the country, have been sold. We don't hear of much doing in the city, but learn that prices are firm at $4.50. The slaughtering at the packing houses continues to increase, though but one or two establishments have full supplies. The number already slaughtered, up to last evening, including New Albany, is 41,000.

Messrs. Jackson, Owsley & Co., at their pork house, had slaughtered upwards of 18,000 hogs up to Sunday night. Clifton, Atkinson & Co. killed 1,550 hogs yesterday, the greater portion of which were received from Indianapolis via Madison, and the river. They have killed altogether, thus far, 6,000 hogs.—*Lon. For Housekeepers.—A short needle makes the most expedition in plain sewing. People in general are not aware how very essential to the health of their inmates is the free admission of light into their houses.

Sitting to sew by candle light at a table with a dark cloth on it is injurious to the eyesight. When no other remedy presents itself, put a sheet of white paper before you.

Its delivery and important uses as a diet for invalids and the sick, as well as for the sustenance of growing children and infants, particularly for the latter at the critical period of weaning, have secured it a character in the sick room and nursery, equal to its reputation as a food for the robust and hearty.

Indeed, no other substance is so well calculated to establish during infancy the formation of a strong and well developed physical organization.

Chemical analysis, from the most distinguished authorities in New York and elsewhere, prove it to contain those elemental properties necessary to the production of muscle and bone in the system, and for satisfying other demands of the "mysterious principle of life."

Hecker's Farm.
FROM its remarkably wholesome and nutritious qualities as a food for the healthy, is now an established and almost indispensable requisite in every well provided family. Its delivery and important uses as a diet for invalids and the sick, as well as for the sustenance of growing children and infants, particularly for the latter at the critical period of weaning, have secured it a character in the sick room and nursery, equal to its reputation as a food for the robust and hearty.

Indeed, no other substance is so well calculated to establish during infancy the formation of a strong and well developed physical organization.

Chemical analysis, from the most distinguished authorities in New York and elsewhere, prove it to contain those elemental properties necessary to the production of muscle and bone in the system, and for satisfying other demands of the "mysterious principle of life."

Packed in papers containing one pound each—modes of cooking detailed on wrappers. A large supply of this invaluable and most delicious article, just received and for sale by
